DEATH COMES TO SLAUGHTER AFTER ESCAPE

LITTLE ROCK, Dec. 10.—The last escape of Tom Slaughter, the notorious bandit, with a record of nearly a score of breaks for freedom from southwestern jails and prisons, led to his death in the Salina hills yesterday at the hands of one of the convicts he liberated, according to the story on which Sheriff Crowe's posse early today were basing their search for Slaughter's body. Posse plan to take up the trail from the point where Slaughter and his companion abandoned the bullet riddled automobile yesterday and fled into the hills.

J. C. Howard, who surrendered with five others of the seven who accepted Slaughter's offer of freedom, told the officials that he shot Slaughter in the back and had intended to shoot him from the moment the party made their escape. The note Howard says he left in the prison, bearing the same statement, would not be found early today.

Beside the body of Slaughter, according to Howard's story, lay a dying man, wounded in the fight with the authorities of Benton, who were watching for the fleeing convicts. Slaughter's body was found late today.

Increasing his holdings in the Fish Lake Merger Oil company, Chas. W. Taylor, president of that company, yesterday purchased an entire interest of E. N. Richards, who has been secretary and treasurer of the company since its inception.

That the Merger well is right at a point where considerable might develop at any moment is conceded by officials of the company, who point out that the casing was secured after a thorough examination of the Merger property had been made by a noted geologist and upon his specific recommendation. The outlay will be upwards of $3500 including additional tools required and will eliminate any possibility of the well not going down to the same depth as reported at the present depth of the well, 1060 feet, the drill is hearing what is believed to be the end of the limestone capping and may enter the well's first production at any time.

Reports that 8,000 imported workers have been brought into the Chicago yards are denied by the five big packers.

The strike leaders here are using the utmost efforts to prevent further disorders. Cornelius J. Hayes, president of the union, has proposed a submission of the differences to "any fair form of arbitration." Hundreds of new employees are said to have been hired by the packers here yesterday, and plant officials declared their operations were on "nearly normal" basis.

QUADRUPLE ENTENTE MEETS WITH FAVOR IN DIPLOMATIC CIRCLES

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The draft of the proposed treaty between the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan, which is to supersede the Anglo-Japanese alliance and pave the way for an acceptance of the American proposals on naval reduction, and formally laid before the arms conference today by Senator Lodge, is a ten year agreement in which the four nations bind themselves to respect the existing rights in insular possessions and the dominions in the Pacific, and in case disputes arise which cannot be settled by diplomacy, they agree to a joint conference among themselves.

Any one of the parties may withdraw on twelve months notice after the expiration of ten years. The treaty requires senate confirmation.

"It should be observed," said Lodge, explaining the treaty, "that the controversies to which the proposed treaty refers do not embrace questions which, according to the principles of international law, lie exclusively within the domestic jurisdiction of the respective powers."

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Dec. 10.—The work thus far accomplished by the Washington conference, especially the agreement for a four party treaty as a substitute for the Anglo-Japanese alliance, is highly praised in the editorial columns of this morning's newspapers. Editorials give unreserved praise to both President Harding and Secretary Hughes for the parts they played. The Morning Post describes the four power agreement as "undoubtedly the greatest achievement in constructive state-ship of our time."

(By Associated Press)

MACHINERY IS BEING PLACED AT ARGENTITE

Installation of hoisting machinery in the Argentite district is practically completed and within a short time shaft sinking will be resumed. The shaft has a depth at the present time of 50 feet and it is proposed to sink for 150 additional feet before any gassing or drilling is undertaken.

The Ecklund property, formerly known as the Shirley-Edgar, makes one of the best showings in the Argentite section, with the possible exception of the dike, which was the scene a few months ago of a sensational rich silver discovery. Many California people are financing the Ecklund property, and Sir Arthur Paget is now in London, England, conferring with capitalists regarding the future of not only this property, but the whole of Argentite in general.

It was stated this week that the Sanger holdings will be equipped at an early date with a modern plant of machinery, including compressors, drills, etc., and that shortly after the beginning of the new year an enlarged campaign of development will be inaugurated. In the meantime drifting is being prosecuted in both directions with satisfactory results, a fine vein of ore being in evidence.
